Sleeping
Beauty

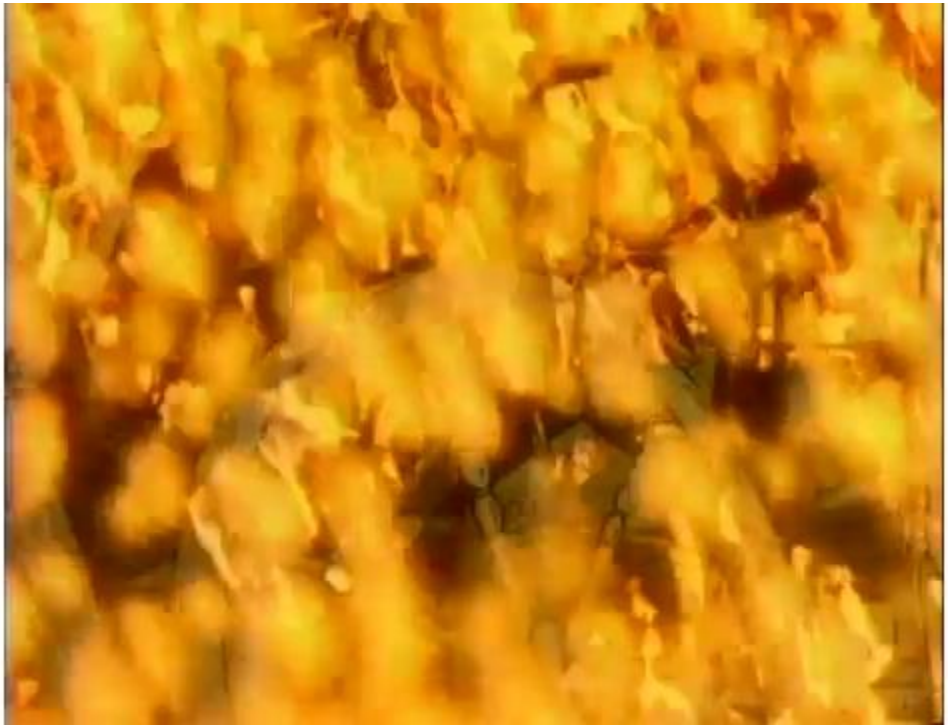
Many years ago, a princess was born.

Good fairies were invited to see the baby. Each fairy had a magic gift for the princess.

An evil fairy was upset. The queen did not invite her. She cast a spell on the child.

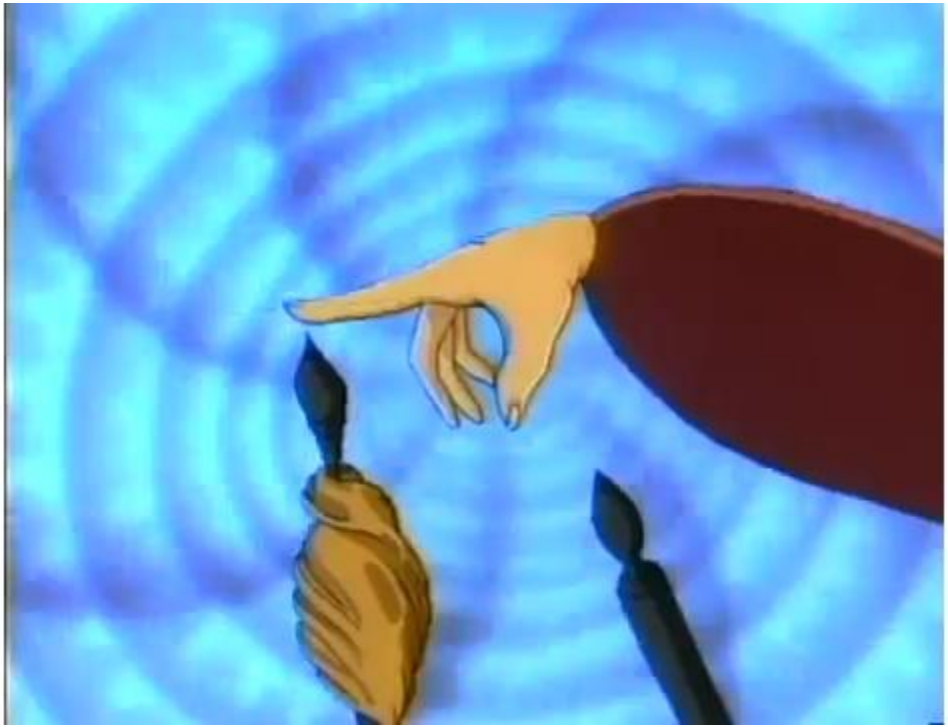
At age sixteen the princess would prick her finger on a spinning wheel and die.

A good fairy cast another spell. Instead of dying the princess would sleep for one hundred years and a prince would kiss her to wake her up.



The king immediately burned all the spinning wheels and forbid anyone from having one.

On the princess's sixteenth birthday the evil fairy made a secret room in the castle and in that room was a spinning wheel.



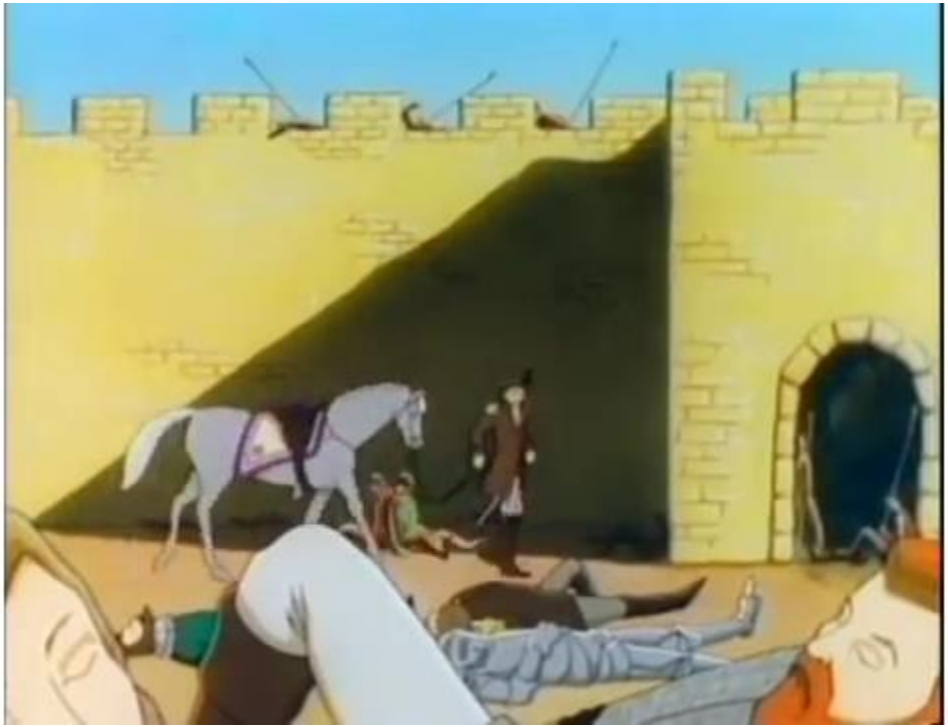
The princess wandered in the room and pricked her finger.

She fell fast asleep.

Vines with thorns surrounded the castle.

One hundred years later, a young prince found the castle. He had heard that a sleeping princess was imprisoned there.

When the prince walked near the vines they magically parted.



He went into the castle and found everyone asleep.

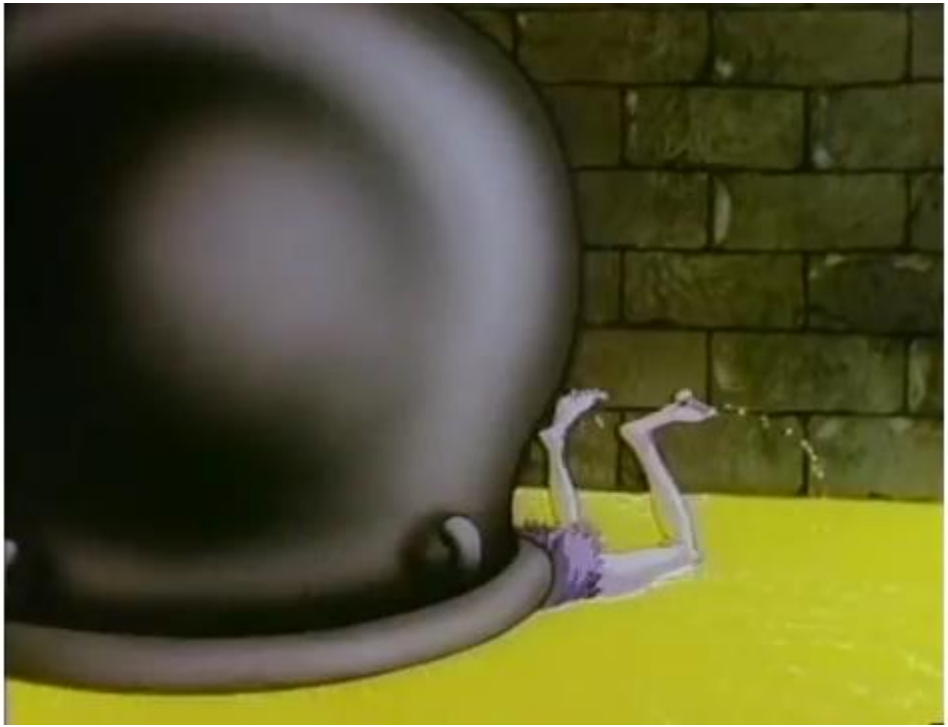
Then he found the princess and kissed her

The princess woke up and smiled at the prince. The evil fairy's spell was broken.

The evil fairy knew the prince was in the castle. She came to kill him and the princess.

The evil fairy used her magic to try and kill the prince.

The princess pushed a large pot on the evil fairy.



And killed her.

The prince and princess were married and lived happily ever after.
